LIZZIE BORDEN’S SECRET: Mr. Borden Discovered It and Hot Words Followed.

Emma Was Kicked During That Quarrel---Family Discord and Murder.

Paul Revere, Mass., Oct. 11--From the cradle to the cradle, the story of the infamous Charles L. Borden, the pride of Old North English, is told. This man was, during the turmoil of the American Revolution, a hero in every sense of the word. He was a brave and noble gentleman, and is remembered with pride.

A few years ago Mr. Borden was seen walking down the street of Old North English with a hound in tow. The dog was barking and Mr. Borden was laughing. The onlookers were amazed at the sight.

As the story goes, Mr. Borden had been kicked during a family quarrel. The quarrel had started over a game of cards, and had escalated into a physical altercation. Mr. Borden had been hit with a card table and had stumbled to the floor. Mrs. Borden had kicked him in the stomach, and he had crumpled to the ground.

Mr. Borden was taken to the hospital, where he was treated for internal injuries. The doctors had said he was lucky to be alive. His family was shocked, and the community was outraged.
